Imposing Ceremonies of the Pope's Golden Jubilee.

Homage and Gifts From the Four Corners of the Earth.

Plans of the Celebration Which is to Begin To-morrow—A Pontiff to Celebrate Mass in St. Peter's for the First Time Since Victor Emanuel Entered Rome—Splendid Scenes of Pomp Which Interest the Christian World—America's Share.

(SPECIAL CABLE TO THE WORLD.)
Rome, Dec. 31.—The streets, palaces and hotels of Rome are crowded with visitors from every part of the world, who are here to take part in or witness the magnificent ceremonies with which the Golden Jubilee of the Pope will be celebrated.

The great event is fixed for 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, when the Pope is to celebrate mass at St. Peter's. Whether or not he will be able to do so is uncertain, as last evening it was whispered about the Vatican that His Holiness had over-exerted himself last week.

If he is not strong enough to sustain the fatigue of the elaborate ceremony it will be postponed until next Sunday.

Enormous sums are being offered, especially by Americans, for desirable places for sight-seeing. Ecclesiastics from every clime pass through the streets, many of them followed by swartthy attendants in strange garb.

The colleges are all entertaining visitors from the countries they represent. Many receptions and entertainments take place to-night.

The close of 1887 and the beginning of 1888 will be cemented together by an event which will interest the civilized world. Pope Leo XIII. will celebrate his Jubilee.

It is not an occurrence of such great rarity in the annals of the Papacy. Fifteen other Popes have witnessed the fiftieth anniversary of their priesthood. But it is ARCHBISHOP RYAN, OF PHILADELPHIA, PA., an event which never fails to attract the notice of men more generally than any fact of contemporaneous history. Even the tribes living outside the pale of civilization, the Indians of the West and of Alaska, the negro tribes from Cape Town to the Mountains of the Moon, the bushmen of Australia, the chilly Greenlanders and the tribes of South America—all these families of men who are nearer barbarism than civilization will hear of the "Holy Father's" celebration and do homage to it in their simple way. He is a ruler whose subjects are limited by no geographical confines, and who are one in the sentiment of filial regard with which they hold him dear.

The Pope has now definitely drawn up and sanctioned the order of ceremonies with which the function of the Jubilee will be carried out. In a brief of Oct. 1, 1887, he announced to his vast family that he would celebrate his Sacrosanct Jubilee on the first day of the new year, and he accords to the faithful a plenary indulgence for a Bishop, Clergyman, or pilgrim to the Eternal City on that occasion. To such as may be unable to go the same indulgence is conceded on certain conditions of prayer.

The Sacrosanct Jubilee, or fiftieth anniversary of the present Pope's elevation to the priesthood, is on the 23d of this month. For certain reasons the celebration of the event is deferred for a few days.

On the last day of the year the Pope will receive an International Committee, who will present to him the sum of 1,000,000 lire. On New Year's Day he will celebrate high mass at the altar in St. Peter's.

On Jan. 2 he will hold a public reception in the Church of San Lorenzo. Foreign deputations will be received on Jan. 4 and 5. On the 6th, His Holiness will open the exhibition of offerings which have been made to him as Jubilee gifts; and which attest the fealty of millions of his children, some of them sovereigns who sway empires, and some bondsmen who sway very little except a devout soul.

On the 15th the Pope will signalize this festive celebration by the canonization of ten saints. This is one of the most solemn prerogatives of his office, yielding place in dignity only to the essentially Papal function of formulating a dogma of the faith.

But the Jubilee festivities does not await the final day of the year for its inception. It has already begun. A vast number of offerings have been received at Rome, and many pilgrims and personages have arrived and paid their respects to the Holy Father. Five hundred on an American pilgrimage to the Jubilee celebration.

MRS. KING EXPLAINS.

She Denies the Charges Against the United States Employment Agency.

There seemed to be just as many applicants for employment at the United States Employment Agency, 272 Sixth avenue, this morning, despite the despatches from Jacksonville, Fla., which accuse William King, proprietor, and William Moore, former manager, of fleecing dozens of men and women. It is charged that this agency sent thirty or forty young men to St. James Hotel, Jacksonville, insuring work. A dozen girls were also shipped to the same place, and given, it is said, like assurances. The women have been given employment, but at the hotel no white men are employed as waiters, so the two score applicants are penniless and a long way from home.

Mr. King was not at the agency this morning when an EVENING WORLD reporter called. His wife flatly denied that she or her husband had ever deceived any one who had sought employment of her.

Her husband's agency she said dealt directly with the Florida General agency, 15 West Hay street, Jacksonville, of which E. F. Dibble was manager.

Men and women were sent South with the understanding that they were to make application to Manager Dibble and not to any hotel. He would give them employment.

Mrs. Stevens Loses Her Suit.

Surrogate Rollins to-day dismissed Mrs. Parah Stevens' suit to remove John L. Meicher, George F. Richardson and Charles G. Stevens as executors and trustees under her husband's will.

A BURGLAR AT "BRIGHTSIDE."

Half-Crazed with Cold, a Man Breaks Into the Late Robert Hoe's House.

"Brightside" is the name of the residence of the late Robert Hoe, on the Southern Boulevard. His wife still resides there. Late last night J. P. Johnston, the gardener, heard the burglar alarm sound, and called in Policeman Martin, who found a parlor window open.

The policeman made a rush, and chased a man up to the roof and fired at him. He missed, but before he could fire again the burglar dropped on his knees and begged for mercy.

The man described himself as August Goss, aged twenty-nine, and said he had no home. At the Harlem Police Court this morning, Goss told Justice Whitelaw he had no intention of committing burglary.

A few mornings ago Mr. Rockefeller, according to his custom, was going the rounds of his place, and reaching the stable where the buck was kept, he offered the creature some green stuff.

Without an instant's warning the deer, with lowered head, attacked him, knocking him down and inflicting two severe wounds in the leg near the knee.

WILLIAM ROCKEFELLER'S PERIL.

Attacked and Wounded by a Pet Deer on His Place at Greenwiche.

Mr. William Rockefeller, the head of the Standard Oil Company, had a very narrow escape from being killed by a pet deer a few days ago, at his country residence at Greenwiche, Conn.

Among the various animals on the place, the one in which Mr. Rockefeller took especial delight was a young buck. It had always been gentle, and would often feed from Mr. Rockefeller's hand.

A few mornings ago Mr. Rockefeller, according to his custom, was going the rounds of his place, and reaching the stable where the buck was kept, he offered the creature some green stuff.

Without an instant's warning the deer, with lowered head, attacked him, knocking him down and inflicting two severe wounds in the leg near the knee.

The creature drew back a few feet to prepare for a second charge, when fortunately a farm hand rushed in and grabbed it. Mr. Rockefeller, it is thought, might have been killed but for the timely arrival of the farmer. A physician was called and the wounds dressed, but Mr. Rockefeller has been confined to his bed ever since the accident.

Little Known About Chitty Here.

It was reported by cable to-day that a saloon passenger named Chitty had during the passage committed suicide on the White Star steamer Adriatic, which has just arrived at Liverpool. At the office of the company in this city it was learned that a passenger in the second cabin had been registered as "Mr. H. W. Chitty." He had bought his ticket on Dec. 24, the day before the vessel sailed. Nothing further was known about him.

ONLY A FEW OBEY THE ORDER.

No General Strike of the Reading Men Reported at Philadelphia.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 31.—From all reports received at the general offices of the Reading Railroad Company this morning there seems to be a continued disinclination on the part of the men to obey the mandates of the Knights of Labor assemblies and trains are being moved as usual, those who stopped work this morning being in the minority.

The committee, which was expected to wait on General Superintendent Sweigard, did not come, and the General Superintendent when seen declared there was no material change in the situation.

The applicants for places still outnumber the vacancies.

Capt. Linden, Superintendent of the Pinkerton Detective Agency in this city, returned from Pottsville this morning, where he went to organize a Coal and Iron Police force to protect the property of the Reading Company there.

He said that he had found the men generally satisfied to work, and from those he had talked with he inferred that they would be sorry if they were ordered to go out, though he thought they would probably obey the order if it were issued.

The police force had been organized, he said, and every means to protect the company's property against rioters should the strike be ordered and the men become malicious. Non-combatant workmen would receive ample protection so that they might have no fear about accepting places of strikers along the line.

About five hundred freight handlers at the Noble and Willow street wharves are now out.

The freight handlers at Front and Willow streets have quit work, but new men are being put in their places, and cars are being moved and vessels loaded.

Mr. Maxwell, who looks after President Corbin's affairs in this city during the latter's absence, said this morning that he had received a despatch from the Philadelphia office of the Reading Company, sent at 10 o'clock, which stated that there was no change in the situation; that the trains were all running on the several divisions, business was proceeding as usual and that enough applications for work had been received to fill any vacancies that might occur.

As to the 30,000 miners in the Schuylkill region, Mr. Maxwell could not give any definite facts, but he thought that after a calm consideration of the situation, which the miners would be able to give to it between now and next Tuesday, they would refrain from any strike. He thought this holiday season, which gave the men on the Reading road time to think over matters, had prevented a foolish move on the part of the employees.

President Corbin is in Philadelphia and will remain there until the difficulties are settled. His proclamation to the Reading men will be printed on handbills and scattered all along the line.

According to brokers and dealers in coal the supply in the retail yards in this city is fully adequate to all demands, and there is no reason why prices should increase.

According to Timothy Putnam, of District Assembly No. 49 of the Knights of Labor, delegates from various labor organizations were in conference from 2 to 5 a. m. to-day, and decided that the Reading strike must be won at all hazards.

Reports showed that there were 118,000 unemployed persons in this city and 27,000 in Philadelphia. An appeal to assist as best they can in the fight is issued to them when it is endorsed by the organizations. This appeal will call on all to unite to resist "corporate aggressions."

The conference also reported, Mr. Putnam said, that 200,000 other circulars had been distributed along the line of the Reading Railroad and through all the dissatisfied Eastern and Western cities.

A delegate asked for the endorsement of that circular, but it was decided to first submit it to every organization, only 40 per cent. of the organizations having received it yet.

Mr. Putnam said that the statements issued at the railroad office did not truly describe the situation.

"We tried," he said, "to procure employment for 1,000 men with Mr. Corbin. We can still furnish that 1,000, and while they are not willing nor anxious yet they agree with us in arriving at the conclusion that the end justifies the means."

NO LONGER A MYSTERY.

Breaker Timpon's Books Fully Identified and Returned to Him.

The mysterious books belonging to the firm of Dater, Timpon & Co., which were thrown into the Hackensack, were turned over to Mr. E. W. Timpon last evening by Toll-taker Lewis, and are now in his office at 51 Exchange place.

They were completely identified, and the story that they might possibly be the missing books of Henry B. Ives was shown to have no foundation.

Who stole them and threw them into the river, Mr. Timpon said to-day he could not imagine and did not care.

LIFE IS TOO SHORT TO BOTHER.

Russell Sage Declines to Discuss the District Attorney's Views.

Lawyer Delancey, who is conducting the criminal suit of the Dutch bondholders of Missouri Pacific against Jay Gould and Russell Sage, was very much pleased with the memorandum of District Attorney Martine with reference to his case published in the morning papers.

Mr. Sage was evidently not in a communicative mood this morning. "I have nothing to say," he said, "more than I have said time and again."

"I never took any stock or bonds of any corporation in my life that I did not pay for. Life is too short to bother with such matters as this."

Owing to the increased wages recently demanded by the cab-drivers and stablemen, the Livery Stable Keepers' Association has increased its rates for carriage and coach service. Hereafter, no call of any kind except city contracts will be made for less than $1.

The rates are as follows: Shopping and visiting in New York City, $1.50 for the first hour and $1 for each successive hour. Carriage for like service, $2 for first hour and $1.50 for each succeeding hour. Theaters, operas, parties and receptions—Leave out and return to the city—$2.50 for the first hour and $1.50 for each succeeding hour. For similar service above Fifty-sixth street (Harlem exception), $3 for coupe and $4 for carriage; waiting for supper $1 extra and after midnight $1 extra.

TOMAHAWKS DUG UP.

A Row Between Democratic Leaders Over Patronage.

Will the Pipe of Sweet Peace Go Entirely Out?

Tammany Refused to Divide the Places in the Surrogate's Office—The County Democracy Departments Quarantined Against Wigwam Braves—A Renewal of Old Faction Fights Foreseen.

The leaders of Tammany Hall and the County Democracy have already had a row, and the harmony which marked the recent election is replaced by discord.

The trouble has been brewing ever since election, and has now become serious enough to cause a cessation of the amiable relations between the two machines, and, if peace negotiations now in progress do not result in the passing around of the pipe, there will soon be a mobilization of forces by both organizations.

The threatened breaking out anew of hostilities is all on account of patronage. The County Democracy demanded one-half the patronage of the Surrogate's office, and the Wigwam Chiefs, after conferring upon the subject, decided that the demand was a greedy one, especially as the County Democracy is well fortified in the Department of Public Works, while Tammany Hall cannot find one of its followers with a search warrant who has a place in that Department.

The big Indians of Tammany Hall also showed their recent allies that the doors of the Custom-House are open to the warriors of the New Amsterdam tribe, while the braves who wear the wigwam belt of the Fourteenth street type are driven out when they apply for a snug berth under Uncle Sam.

Big Indian Maurice J. Power and Big Indian Richard Croker had a long talk yesterday, and it is said that a great many grunts were exchanged. The result of the patronage distribution pow-wow is a disagreement and much bad feeling.

The County Democracy will not get any patronage in the Surrogate's office, and the County Democracy departments are to be quarantined against Tammany Hall.

The County Democracy showed its hand yesterday and not a single Wigwamite received an appointment from District Attorney-elect Fellows.

Peter Mitchell, Jay's lawyer and an Assistant District Attorney by the solid influence of the Wigwam leaders, but he was bowled out on the first roll.

It is said that Big Indian Maurice J. Power objected to Mitchell's appointment because the Counties had been repulsed from the Surrogate's office. Those who are acquainted with the present situation of affairs between the Democratic machines prophesy a renewal of the old factions feud, and say that patronage will be the cause.

It will be the same old story, they say—a union for offices and disunion over the distribution of the offices.

The rank and file of Tammany Hall prefer to have the patronage of the Surrogate's office and a fight, rather than to give the County Democracy one-half of the patronage and have peace.

The information is given that in the October articles of peace and good will, no pledges were made by Tammany Hall to divide the patronage of the Surrogate's office. The County Democracy insist that an equitable distribution was understood.

COLD BLASTS FOR THE BALD EAGLE.

He Is Still on His Perch, But Will Soon be

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)
ALBANY, Dec. 31.—The Bald Eagle still remains on his perch, and an occasional effort at flapping of the wings shows that life is not wholly extinct. The weather, however, continues very cold, and unless the bird gets down before many hours he will be frozen stiff.

Early morning brought him a cold blast from the West on the arrival of ex-Assemblyman Krause, of Cattaraugus, with three of the four Cattaraugus and Chautauqua members in charge for Cole.

Cole's headquarters this morning are overflowing with members-elect, while Husted's are deserted save by his Oneida County friends and Capt. Mayville, of Washington, who claims that Fort, of his county, is pledged in the doubtful to Husted and does not belong in the writing list.

The Speakership issue, in fact, is so dead that the arrival of Clerk Chickering, who opened headquarters this morning, was welcomed as a break in the monotony, and the real scrambling now in progress is the rush around "Chick" for places as committee clerks, messengers and page boys.
